

SPECIFIC GIFTS in WILLS

Be very careful if you are considering gifting in your Will a valuable specific gift.

This could be a house, a bank account, a valuable painting, a particular holding of shares. Such gifts always carry with it the danger that if at the time of death the testator no longer owns that property the gift will be adeemed (ie. fail).

Don't take a chance. Choose peace of mind. Use Foster Harrington Solicitors for expert advice. Contact:

Avril Turner
Foster Harrington

Tele : 01276 692233 Fax : 01276 692244
Email : info@fosterharrington.co.uk

Avril Turner and Timothy Foster are Members of STEP
Society of Trust and Estate Practitioners